Encore Keeps the Conversation Going with Candid Stools

September 16, 2016, Cerritos, CA—Every great interior includes a conversation piece that catches the eye and inspires dialogue. With Encore’s introduction of the Candid stool collection, lively discussion is sure to follow thanks to its compelling design that elevates the appearance of virtually any space.

Candid is characterized by a fluid, contemporary look that pairs beautifully with today’s relaxed, yet functional interiors where casual meetings, social gatherings and informal communication are commonplace. Licensed from Austria-based Wiesner Hager, known for their exceptional quality and imaginative designs, this stool marks the third collaboration with Encore and raises the bar with its distinctively European styling.

The stool’s organic make-up allows for no visible connection points, making it a true wonder to the eye. The soft-skinned polyurethane seat features smooth edges and corners that lend a uniquely tactile quality, captivating the user’s sense of touch. In the same fashion, its elongated footrest offers both a bit of visual interest and added comfort that invites users to linger over a latte or simply catch up with colleagues.

Further emphasizing Candid’s appeal is the stool’s remarkable versatility. At the touch of a lever, its height can be adjusted to match varying counter or bar heights, while at the same time maintaining a 360-degree turning radius for greater ease of maneuverability. Add to that a wide array of finish selections that include 13 base color options and 3 polyurethane seat colors in neutral tones of white, grey and black, and Candid is as expressive as it is functional.

“Candid is an exceptionally elegant, yet practical seating solution with pizzazz,” says David Logsdon, Encore’s Director of Sales. “Its stunning aesthetic is matched only by its superb flexibility, both of which we feel make it a standout in the stool seating category and will get designers and specifiers talking.”
